1. In response to your instructions contained in Reference B., the Office of Training in cooperation with the [REDACTED] conducted a survey of the value of Project [REDACTED] The [REDACTED] Staff directed its effort toward the [REDACTED] [REDACTED] and will furnish a separate report on the results of their survey.

2. The Office of Training conducted a survey of the Directorates of Intelligence, Support, and Science and Technology with the following results:

25X1A
25X1A

a. The Directorate for Intelligence indicated that Project [REDACTED] contributes little to the furtherance of the over-all mission already established with the [REDACTED]
The course adds to the already heavy demands on the time of the senior personnel but if the program benefits other elements of the Agency, they are willing to continue to support future presentations.

b. The Directorate for Science and Technology's response was similar to the DDI. They do not feel Project [REDACTED] aids appreciably in the extensive and varied joint or cooperative ventures in which they are engaged with the military services. The respondent suggested that the program be shortened and assured participation if it is decided that the program is of value to the Agency.

25X1A c. The Directorate of Support offices stated it is their opinion that Project [REDACTED] is of primary value to the DDP and that they must take their lead from the DDP. The Support offices derive very little direct results from the program; however, they would support the program if the DDP decides it is of value. These offices [REDACTED]
